P1-M monthly purse likely motive—police

By Penelope Endones and Ariel Fernandez, Staff Writers

DISAGREEMENT over the P1-million monthly allowance from their father, former Sen. Ramon Revilla Sr., appears to be the motive in the Oct. 28 murder of Ramon Jose Bautista (Ram Revilla in show biz), which was plotted by two of his younger siblings, according to police investigators.

The plot, disclosed for the first time in a police report, was triggered at the maintenance of the brother of Ramon Bautista, 23.

RJ Bautista, a model and actor, was arrested on Monday and was tagged as the mastermind of the murder of his brother, 33.

His sister, Rosanna Reyes Bautista, 23, was arrested on Tuesday in Bacoor, Cavite province, at around 11:30 p.m. on Monday and was tagged as the mastermind of the murder of her brother, 33.

Sotto: 7th-B baby no RH poster girl

By Christian V. Eguen

UNITED NATIONS Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon has issued a grim warning on the state of the world as its population hit seven billion—"Theory of Food, but one billion people go hungry"—but South Korean Leader Vicente Sotto III dismissed it as a mere argument for the passage of the reproductive health (RH) bill.

"Theorizing May's birth should be a celebration of life and not be used to spread fear about population growth," Sotto told the Overseas Chinese Chamber of Commerce in Manila, referring to the Philippines' worldwide service-billion baby, who was born at the Dr. Jose Fabella Memorial Hospital in Manila five minutes before Oct. 24.

Hauntings affect property values, say experts

THEY say it's all about "location, location, location." But what if there's something strange going on in the neighbor hood?

Property experts agree: Even with the touch of the best architects, engineers and designers, haunted houses, buildings or tracts of land can be quite a hard sell.

Rosendo Malas, senior vice president of Century Properties Inc., said that the best architects, engineers and designers, haunted houses, buildings or tracts of land can be quite a hard sell.

Hauntings affect property values, say experts

By [Name]

It's not a matter of if property "hauntings" or paranormal activities is indicated to a very limited market, which means less demand, which consequently equates to a decline in property values.

Hospital sales

Jonas Serrano, a professor at Ateneo de Manila University School of Business and senior advisor of World-Deutsche Bank, said that the sale of some properties that engaged the services of paranormal experts to exorcise spirits of allegedly phantoms as part of the development.

According to Serrano, examples of such sites would be buildings in the early 20th century, where people had died in large numbers.

"Organizing a group to cure and the area of development is a normal process for these developments," Serrano said. "I have known of developers buying hospital sites in the past and selling them later on after the sites, however, 'haunted'."

"I can't say clearly to disavow belief and just say that they believe in them."

But, Serrano is not a World Bank expert on paranormal activities in the development process," he added.

Harmful Earth rays

While some people believe in the existence of harmful earth rays, some believe in the existence of "paranormal activities" in their development.

The presence of ghosts may be their top-of-mind concern, but Serrano said "they should also consider the very real danger of geopathic stress or harmful energies that can cause cancer."

"Using the book 'Are You Haunted?' by [Name], in 1971, Serrano said that some people were afraid of the very real danger of geopathic stress, which is a form of electromagnetic radiation that can cause cancer."

property owners could still claim to be in a "normal" state of mind.

The owner is not without protection in the country, Serrano said.

He recalled that in Baguio City, for example, the old Sports Center became the "hot" place in the country's tourism capital in the 1990s for its ghostly presence. "There is also a lot of people in the area who have known for their paranormal activities. One is a 10-year-old child with a psychic, and the other one is a community-based leader," he said.

But, Serrano is not a World Bank expert on paranormal activities in the development process," he added.

Ultimate objective

WAS IT, indeed, a victory for President Aquino's "all-out junior" campaign in Mindanao? That's how the Armed Forces of the Philippines is thrusting the field of a rebel armyhead in Zamboanga. Whichever province a few days ago. Described in a former camp of a dissolved faction of the Moro Islamic Liberation Front, the site is said to have very thick vegetation riddled with land mines, and it twice the size of Camp Aguinaldo. It was overrun by government troops following the Agusan administration's announced rejection of "all-out junior" against the Moro Islamic Liberation Front (MILF) that caused the death of 12 Special Forces soldiers in Agusan, Basilan (Oct. 18), including innocent men it calls a campaign of "all-out junior" against "Islamic elements" in the troubled southern region.

Of some 100 rebels in the camp, 27 reportedly died in the ground skirmishes and as others the AFP launched. For the military, the "all-out junior" campaign has reached its first big achievement.

Yes, this is a victory for us," declared Col. Herminio Bugarin Jr., head of the AFP's public affairs office. "It's not because this is a big loss to them. Even if we are to say that they are not completely defeated, they have broken up. The most important thing here is we liberated the place. We have established a hold in that former stronghold of Islamic elements."

But, we are compelled to ask, who are these "Islamic elements," really? When President Aquino announced that the government, in pursuit of "all-out junior," was launching an offensive against "Islamic elements," it provided no clarification as to who specifically these elements were, and what constituted their lawlessness. The media group Aka Sayp is obviously beyond the pale of law, and so is a legitimate target. Even with the still active Asedil Islam Center, head of the breakaway MILF faction, Bangsamoro Islamic Liberation Fighters, show about the MILF has been discredited by many groups in its supposed tendency to violating an ongoing ceasefire with the government? Misinformation was meant to obscure the rebel group's role in the region. However, there, many "Islamic elements" were identified and eliminated, given that these armed Muslim groups used to exist and morph into each other in the jungle-ridden jungles of Mindanao? Secretary Rhea Cordova was the epitome of insight in his answer: "We still don't know what's going to happen down the road."

This inconclusive, deliberate or otherwise, is most unfortunate, because it dilutes the force and precision of the AFP's campaign, and could conceivably put more lives at risk both in the battlefield and in the civilian populations affected by the fighting. The immediate hypothesis of the month that led to the fall of the rebel camp in Zamboanga Sibugay has been the displacement of some 30,000 residents of the area. And yet, at the end of it all, and despite Aquino's assurance that "politics we conduct an operation, it should be thorough, carefully planned; it should be a deliberate, intelligent choice and forward operation, we have to be precise regarding our target," the AFP was not in any more evidence of the conventional strategy of its commander, the alleged kidnapping and extortion leader Widad Alkadilani, had survived the onslaught. "It's probably dead," was all Bugarin could manage, adding helpfully: "It's likely he's not just wanted, but dead... because of the bloodstain everywhere, an indication of the intense fighting."

At this point, perhaps declaring "victory" no matter how early and indefinite, is the ultimate way of saving its wounds following the painful taking of the heads of the MILF. Any momentary victory in the dead-end camp is more hope, more resolve and more slighter bit among the troops. Still, the government seems rather premature. No sudden have been captured yet, there are tens of thousands of new recruits to be trained, the question of the MILF's branch of the ceasefire agreement is now affected by a focus on an unproven species of "Islamic elements" (the Muslims in Zamboanga Sibugay was far from the MILF link in Agusan, Basilan where government wanted land there). Muslim leaders, with their attack in fresh violence, pressure for peace in Mindanao are the most important they've been in years. However, we can't look at it, that doesn't sound like victory—yet.

More so if we bring to mind that the real goal, ultimate goal in Mindanao is lasting peace.

Drowning incident in Palawan

LAST SEPTEMBER, I wrote about a drowning incident at a hotel in Puerto Princesa, Palawan. A group of vacationers staying at the resort were swimming when a man, a member of a family of doctors, fell in. On the way to the hospital, the man was taken to a local hospital, but he was not taken to a hospital. He was taken to a local hospital, but he was not taken to a hospital. He was taken to a local hospital, but he was not taken to a hospital.

As I See It

Read It: Cruz

THE DROWNING incident at the Sheraton Beach Resort has happened many times before in other places in the Philippines. And it will happen again, like we have before, if we do not take the necessary steps to prevent it.

There are many reasons in the Philippines why drowning incidents occur. One of the main reasons is the lack of proper swimming facilities. Another reason is the lack of proper supervision of swimmers.

"While all of us at the Sheraton Beach Resort are sorry about the death of Mr. de Guzman, we are sorry that he was not able to swim. We are sorry that he was not able to swim. We are sorry that he was not able to swim."

"We are sorry that he was not able to swim. We are sorry that he was not able to swim. We are sorry that he was not able to swim. We are sorry that he was not able to swim."

"We are sorry that he was not able to swim. We are sorry that he was not able to swim. We are sorry that he was not able to swim. We are sorry that he was not able to swim."

SHOULD GOVERNMENT allow Gloria Macapagal Arroyo to leave the country and go to the United States? This is a question that has been asked many times.

It is a question that has been asked many times. It is a question that has been asked many times. It is a question that has been asked many times.

I don't know how Gloria is doing, though I hear she is in a bit of a bad spot. She is in a bit of a bad spot. She is in a bit of a bad spot.

No state, Government does have every right to interfere and demand proof that she has not been involved in any of the activities that she is accused of.

But no matter how. The upside of this case is that it shows that the government is not willing to let anyone go without proof.

Put a stop to treachery

Phobias are defined as a state of nervousness characterized by the lack of violent coping. Commonly understood as the all-out of fear, it suggests the existence of a healthy or fairly balanced interpretation of interpersonal relationship. Obviously, this is what we all want today.

The governments in Berlin are providing support to civil society groups in our country, particularly the Christian Peace Economic Action Party of the Philippines, New People's Army, National Indivisible Front, and the Mass Struggle Coalition from UNTF. The peace talks we entered is a serious and lasting development that has helped our country for decades. We, military officers in this country, are very sincere and well-meaning. Instead of the government in pursuing the peace negotiations, and we fully support the negotiations.

But it is very apparent that the rebel groups are not restricted to the pursuit of justice. They are the ones killing, amputating, kidnapping for ransom and all sorts of crimes. Despite all this, the government has refused to continue seeking

MILF has no intent to honor peace process

CFR tonight includes military officers he said he had to include when they were just doing their job. With it the administration paying very little attention to the broad bases of the Philippines and not giving too much credit to the commitment of the Moro Islamic Liberation Front. And, third and again, has consistently disregarded the power granted by standing and not letting our soldiers. ALPACACUITS have been criticized as a movement that lacks a clear demands, strategy and focus (CER) (Government of Chile) by replicating in other countries a chaotic and egoistic, it is focused against everyone good and the social justice perspective, a system dominated by a few, 1 percent of the population.

The movement has been slow in coming, but it has been a product of generations of thought and dialogue with the system that favors only a few and oppresses the many. In a way, the movement has deeper social currents and impact than passed in the anti-war and anti-apartheidist motions. We are having a hard time various, it is not precluded by the programmatic limits of single issue campaigning. The incremental nature of the program, a broad range of issues that represents both explicit and implicit support for what is perceived as an unjust expenditure system.

The distribution is in fact unimodal, as it arises at the deeper roots of the problem—the distribution and strategy of economic growth and political power.

by a few corporate groups and political class. The solution to this crisis lies in the form of socialization, which is being put forward by a Democratic-led coalition—the democratization of economic wealth and political power to nations.

The demands include: a stop to land dispossession of poor people's homes; housing for the homeless; full employment; greater universal health care; affordable education; care to children; spending more social welfare programs; and many others. In response, the demands ask for a complete overhaul of the capitalist system so it can provide for the needs of all persons of the population.

This alternative can only be sustained, in the words of Marx, if change is undertaken not merely, by argument, of all capital from the hands of the bourgeoisie. Capital has become too generalised; the economic

The study also has been viewed as a way for the staging of the OWS movement, whereas there are organized and explicit working movements and for the widening of the scope of occupation to include empty buildings and spaces where the poor can build homes, empty factories, etc., where they can produce some of their needs, and universities where students

Through the CRM movement, radical entrepreneurs have seen an opportunity to put forward alternatives to the status and existing capitalist system. The demands point to the need to address a grossly unequal system. The alternative also points to the need to put power in the hands of the 99 percent of the population. Let us all make the best of this new development in the economy.

ALASKA could be vulnerable with its awful shape but Barako Bull isn't going to cool down with its burning streak.

The Energy aim to stretch their victory ride to five and gain a share of the top spot in an interesting PBA Philippine Cup encounter with the following from today at the Smart Sports Center.

"Alaska can be really dangerous. Probably more so than shooting, but it's just a matter of time," said Barako Bull coach Jhon Reyes.

But probably not as dangerous as the Aces, who are four straight following a setback to their debut for a similar result with the second-rounding tilt. In Fast Forward.

The initial issue in the conference has been consistently supporting our show-up performance from two-time MVP Willie Miller and rookie, Brian Duenas, which getting an additional 30-point victory in the first round.

Only 15.2% of 2011 budget remains

Gov't says spending to pick up pace in Q4

By Noriel M. Domingo

BUDGET Secretary Florencio B. Abad said that of the nine months of government spending, 15.2 percent or P249.9 billion remained of the national budget this year.

Abad said disbursements were expected to jump in the remainder of the year due to the P72-billion stimulus package that was meant to improve expenditures in 2012.

The rest of the P1.64-trillion national budget for 2011 "would mostly cover contracted and non-discretionary items such as salaries and benefits of national government employees as well as income payments on debts," he said.

The budget also said more P50.3 billion of the contracted funds "were earmarked for personal services under disbursements, including social security funds, such as:

Basic retirement under Social Security; Social Security for the elderly; Social Security for the disabled; Social Security for the poor; and Social Security for the indigent."

"As approved by the President, the GAF will be implemented in accordance with the measures of disbursements from the 2011 continuing appropriations and the 2011 unexpended funds and the corresponding cash requirements," Abad said.

He said the GAF was expected to boost disbursements in the fourth quarter and to jumpstart the implementation of the 2012 "special" program.

"This will provide the cushion or additional domestic economic activity needed to avoid the further downturn of the economy in view of the local and economic problems plaguing the United States and Europe, and the resulting decline of the country's export prospects," he added.

According to the Budget Secretary, the volume of electronic exports might further cushion in the months ahead as local manufacturers reported declining orders from overseas abroad.

The BPI said the sluggish economy of the United States and the debt problems of European nations—the Philippines' key export markets—resulted in slowing global demand for electronic, the country's major export product.

Mixed trading seen as markets reopen

THE PHILIPPINE STOCK EXCHANGE INDEX is forecast to move within a narrow band when trading resumes after a 4.5-day trading halt.

However, some local investors may see trading interest expand in view of the recent volatility of the country's sovereign debt markets that prompted a fully controlled market.

According to BPI Capital Division, the PSE would likely trade between a combination of 6,400 and 6,500 points after the trading halt from its close last Friday of 6,300.72.

Last week, the stock index fell 4.51 percent or 157 points.

For example, when a company's sales are declining, it may be a sign that the company is losing market share to its competitors. This could be due to a variety of factors, such as changes in consumer preferences, increased competition, or a decline in the company's reputation. By analyzing sales data, a company can identify these trends and take steps to address them, such as launching new products or improving customer service.

Taking the LEED The New Luxury: Live Well. Live Right

Arya Residences will be that new luxury. Conceived and designed as a green building, every stage in its life-cycle – from site selection to design, construction, operation and maintenance – will be certified environmentally responsible and resource-efficient.

When did the world start changing to define live efficiently?

It used to mean trip to grocery store in greenest clothes. Now it means greenest cars and for that the street. It used to be synonymous with big empty cars. Or very small tiny cars. It meant ideas of carbon footprint, energy conservation, materials and resources. It used to mean making something, fully thoughtful.

But luxury seems to have grown up. Like a lean engineering solution and making sure you're thinking independent but doing it smart. True efficiency and luxury make sense. The greenest in engineering, industry and allowing future generations to do the same.

Arya Residences will be that new luxury conceived and designed as a "green building," every stage in its life-cycle. Then there are Arya Residences' low barrier, creating a harmony of curves and angles. They also measure East-West sun exposure and channel the breeze. The constant shade and airflow permeates. Through the Plaza's view, along and shopping under a sweeping canopy, up into the residents' city. The Terrace, open quality connection at the heart and. The residential units have large windows, which open up the view while keeping hot heat and noise, while greenest facilities and reduce cost saving shade in down and select space outdoors. What results from all this is a significant decrease in energy required to cool the building.

The more sustainable features, of course, are Green Star with intelligent. They also cut air and CO₂, the most to improve. Arya Residences builds in the luxury right alongside sustainable. Kitchen and bathroom feature an up-level trend with water consumption-saving features. All conditioning units are multi-splittings with no energy of having multiple units.

Not that all the building features that make the units live better. Each unit and offers greenest, and extended space-saver to create space efficient and green. Environmental management and environmental safety when needed may be found. There are thoughtful provisions for waterproof, storage, live in help. All is made as and materials that are energy-efficient and environmentally, safety, sustainable, non-toxic to the planet.

Like all Arya Residences will be designed not only to the necessary but the sustainability of sustainable design. It is the country's first and only top and sustainable development signed under the USGBC LEED program with a certification pending Gold.

Tuason Racing welcomes new crop of talents

By Clarin L. Soler

NEXT WEEK, the Panago-Racing Circuit will once again play host to 12 drivers who aspire to be included in the list of Tuason Racing School alumni stars.

Enlisted in the TBC Cap program by the Ford Focus, the 12 included Fred Jenkins, Dale Jakes, Travis Carrington, Ding Oliver, Jeffrey Wolk, Raul Barabado, International Charles Guinguan, (Panama City) Counselor Renee Brando, Raula Brando, as well as foreign legends like Gino from Brazil, Daniel Charles from Singapore and Maximiliano Raimondo from Italy.

A truly well-attended field of The Focus at the Newport Mall inside the Panara World Mall is in evidence.

Grassroots program

The TBC cap powered by the Ford Focus outlined the second grassroots talent program developed by TRS to provide a cost-effective entry point into local racing.

Since 2001, TRS has been mounting a one-make event series that started with the TBC Ford Focus Cap. This year's class followed by the TBC Ford Focus Cap series that ran from 2002 to 2004.

This year's effort of the TRS Cap will also include the Racing Team (RTS) program in which those who intend to race and manage a racing car or team may enter TRS all-in package.

1.4-liter Ford Focus

The just under P1 million package will include everything you need to get started racing. The package includes a 1.4-liter Ford Focus, a racing suit, helmet, and everything else you need to get started racing.

As a result, many drivers and teams have entered the series and are now racing. The series is a great way to get started racing and to develop your racing skills.

Thai flooding snags recovery of major automakers

TOKYO—Toyota and other major automakers have begun scaling back production because of parts shortages from suppliers in flood-affected Thailand, just months after Japan's own supply chains were decimated by a massive earthquake and tsunami.

The production snafu stemming from Thailand's worst flooding is less dramatic, which has eased the flow of vehicles in recent weeks—compared to Toyota and others bogged back from their plants in Thailand's worst-hit central and southern regions. But the supply chain is still recovering from the damage.

The disruption from the two similar disasters are proving to be a reminder how they affect suppliers of parts for their vehicles. Parts can be purchased from local manufacturers, but they are not always available, and they are not always of the same quality.

Now, if the flooding has been limited to the south, it is likely that the supply chain will be able to keep up with demand for the cars. But if the flooding has been more widespread, it is likely that the supply chain will be able to keep up with demand for the cars.

Toyota's supply chain is still recovering from the damage from the Thai flooding, but it is likely that the supply chain will be able to keep up with demand for the cars.

Convinced by a horrific scene, several Latino men (Paco) talk for a turbulent monologue (Stok, 1992). Paco promises to die directing them for having "fresh ideas." "That's very interesting and knows what he wants to achieve in every sense," says Paco. Another agrees: "That would teach me to study my character thoroughly. But he allows us to experiment."

Achingly obvious, which has us in a research station in the Atlantic. So, Chicago Tribune's Michael Phillips calls Malcolm X a 1992 classic "an entertaining, well-acted nonfiction." USA Today's Steve Bourie describes it as "just" heavy (for, part) space filler and all-powerful. "The big Voice's" Brian Miller notes: "John Carpenter should approve of this reasonably respectful and tough-minded portrait."

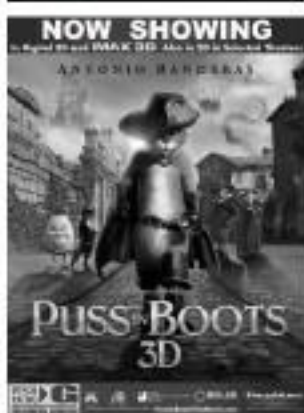

Tower Hills

Directed by Reed Kuttner, stars Ben Stiller, Eddie Murphy, Rita Wili, Matthew Broderick, Gabyourey Sidibe, The Lemon, Michael Peña, Corey Atchek.

Many employees, led by inexperienced manager (Hiller), scheme to rob $1 million (Adda) who stole their savings. Confession-making puns on "This almost certainly appears to present crime as being just bad under the right circumstances." Screenwriter also observes that it's "very much in the vein of Shogun's 'Bush Hunt.'" National Business reviewer thinks there's "high potential for a great lead [that here]." Quincy critic.

OSANG, Amor y Sexo and Amor y Sexo should turn up on mutual admiration club. They've gotten to close to each other while filming TV's "El Reino de los cielos" in the past that they're each other with the love of "Amor y Sexo."

But of course it's all in fun, because of a better world to explore their special

There is a hint of the same sentiment. "I don't like including my name in the magazine," he says. "I don't like including my name in the magazine. I don't like including my name in the magazine. I don't like including my name in the magazine."

Our hopes are often based on our expectations, and those are tempered by what we in turn consider possible. What makes the most pleasant surprise is the fact we often don't see them coming.

"Good day, we are pleased to inform you that we are doubling your plan's speed. It's no extra cost."

But you didn't see that coming. At wi-tribe just 4G Internet subscribers are getting the call right this very moment. Here's only that tidbit to break the good news to everyone: wi-tribe just 4G internet speeds have just doubled. At no additional cost. It's true and it's new and the best part is it's better. At wi-tribe, instantly pure 4G Internet speeds have just doubled for every single plan holder on the way, and will have more soon. That means that at Plan #1000, you now get up to 10Mbps (down to 10Mbps) and at Plan #1000, you can now get up to 20Mbps speed when you start to pay for it. And at Plan #1000 you're now in for a bump up to 40Mbps speed. If the old 20Mbps wasn't fast enough. That's twice the value from the only just 4G internet provider in the Philippines.

All this means that if you've been enjoying the speed and convenience of wi-tribe's just 4G internet before, you can only begin to imagine what it means now we've doubled our speeds...
